ENERGISING AFRICA

The sub-Saharan and East African regions will feature strongly at the Indaba as electricity demand in these regions, and the rest of Africa, is growing

The decision to host this year's Africa Energy Indaba at the Cape Town International Convention Centre on March 3 and 4, rather than in Johannesburg, where it was hosted previously, has resulted in increased interest from African and global delegates to attend the event, says Africa Energy Indaba trade fair organisers Siyenza Events MD Liz Hart.

"The allure of Cape Town as a tourist destination does play a role in attendance. In addition, many energy companies are located in Cape Town, making attendance easier."

Hart mentions that the twelfth edition of the Indaba will enable attendees to converse and seek solutions to allow for adequate energy generation in Africa. With a focus on dialogue and outcomes, the Indaba will create a strategic plan, with shared knowledge and content, for regional implementation through the event's strategic partners.

These partners include the World Energy Council, the African Union Development
